

INMATES HIDE AS RAID CRY ISSUES

Occupants of the Standard Hotel Run to Cover for Protection From Rock Island Police.

MINIONS SURROUND THE PLACE

Ten Are Taken From Closets and From Under Beds, But the Keepers Are Not Found by Patrolmen.

Rock Island police ransacked every nook and corner of the Standard hotel late Saturday night before they routed ten inmates in the place.

A tip came to the police at 11 o'clock that there was a fight in progress in the resort, which is located on the west side of Twentieth street between First and Second avenues. When the minions pounded on the door for admission the lights on the inside were turned out. Police then surrounded the hotel to see that no one escaped.

The demand for entrance was repeated. With every avenue of escape guarded women inmates concluded to open the door. When the police got on the inside they learned that a warning cry had gone out all over the house and the occupants had run for cover.

Inmates were found under beds, in closets and in every nook and corner that offered the protection of a hiding place. The keepers were not present and were not arrested. Police apprehended five women and four men inmates. Each was fined $5 and costs. The women gave the names of Violet Burns, Bee Leroy, Virginia Hand, Gladys Moore and Frances Wilson. The men gave the names of James Flowers, Harry Wahlstrom, Harold Smith and Arthur Hartman.

The raid Saturday night is the second made on the Standard within ten days. On the former occasion two keepers and several inmates were arrested and ordered out of town.

Saturday night Patrolmen Fitzsimmons, Ristau, Cabooter and Berry figured in the raid.

Woman Is Taken.

Bruised and cut, Christina Moore, a woman who told the police she came to Rock Island from Peoria, was picked up Saturday night. She was bewildered and could not tell a connected story, although she said she had been robbed. She admitted being drunk. She was sentenced to the county jail for 20 days in default of a fine of $100 and costs.

George Norris and John Smith each paid $5 and costs today on a charge of assault. They were fighting at the corner of Twentieth street and Third avenue when arrested Saturday night.

John Price, a negro, was apprehended on Second avenue Saturday night when he became abusive. Police said he was drunk and was cursing pedestrians. He paid $10 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct.

HAY AMENDMENT IS HELD VICIOUS

Congressman Tavenner Will Oppose Placing Drafting Power in the Hands of President.

(Special to The Argus.)

Washington, March 20.—Chairman Hay of the military affairs committee will offer an amendment to the army bill now before the house giving the president the power in time of war to draft all men between the ages of 18 and 45 years.

Representative Tavenner of Illinois said he would oppose this amendment because in his opinion it lodged too much power in the chief executive.

"The proposed amendment," said Tavenner, "would give the president more power than is possessed by a king. Before even a limited conscription could be resorted to in England special legislation had to be obtained from parliament. If the proposed amendment goes into the bill it will become permanent legislation. President Wilson would not misuse so great a power, but there is no telling what some other president might do. Suppose some president should be meditating the advisability of going to war and popular opinion should be averse to such action. With the knowledge that so soon as war was declared he could draft every man between 18 and 45, a president could force men to fight whether they wanted to or not. Knowledge of such a vast power would have a tendency to strengthen his decision to enter into such a war.

"If any one should criticize an administration in power the president could reach out and draft such a person and put him on the firing line. No man would dare say his life was his own should some autocratically-minded person happen to be president. While only congress can declare war, any president can make a war. President Wilson himself has so stated. There will be plenty of time for congress to authorize conscription after any war has been declared. In the time of war such legislation could be put through congress in half an hour if its necessity could be shown. Why rush?"
